

Below: Charles A. Lindbergh (second from left) posed with Stearman chief pilot David "Deed" Levy (left), Walter P. Innes, Jr., and Julius E. Schaefer (right) with a C2B flown by Levy in the 1928 Ford Reliability Tour. During his visits to Wichita, Lindbergh was often invited to fly aircraft built by various companies. It was good publicity and gave valuable credibility to the manufacturer. Notice the Stearman company logo painted on the side of the fuselage. (Walter P. Innes, Jr., Collection, Wichita State University Libraries, Department of Special Collections)

